TEAM HIGHLIGHTS: NORTH AMERICA

EDEN'S GLORY: ILLINOIS

The ladies at Eden's Glory have been learning a variety of skills, including crocheting, gardening, cooking, nutrition, bike riding, and car repairs. They engage regularly in horse and art therapy, daily fitness, individual and group therapy, and daily devotions as part of their recovery process. "These women's stories are complex and their journey toward healing is hard," explains Ginger Coakley, CEO of Eden's Glory, "so we're here to plant seeds in their life while we can."

FOSTER CARE MINISTRY: SEATTLE

Mandy Neill (pictured third from left) is working to support and improve the foster care system in Washington State. She's working with churches, 10 of the Department of Health and Social Services offices in the state, and other non-profits to focus on three main areas of need:

(1) Caring for foster kids, such as providing care packages including PJ's, stuffed animals, night-lights, and other items for their first 24 hours in state care.

(2) Supporting foster parents, especially since there is a shortage in licensed foster homes. Mandy's team seeks to ensure these parents are supported and well-cared for as they take on foster kids.

(3) Encouraging and supporting social workers, who can often be over-worked and under-appreciated.

SOCIAL ENTREPRENEURSHIP: SEATTLE PACIFIC UNIVERSITY

Linda Green (Refuge Ministries at Wichita, KS), Lorna Gaffney (Eden's Glory, IL), and Kelly Grace (SFM Mission Plant in Portland, OR) attended the Christian Social

Entrepreneurship Program at Seattle Pacific University in June. During their 10 days of intensive training at SPU, all three SFM leaders began developing workable business plans for social enterprises to help restore and build their communities. They will continue to receive coaching throughout the rest of the year from experienced business professionals.

JANET BLUE
Monee, IL

In June, Janet was honored at the White House for being an advocate for change and an end to violence against women. "All attendees were joined for lunch by President Obama and later that day joined for an armchair conversation with Oprah and the First Lady," says Janet. "We also [sat in on] seminars including Health and Wellness, Violence Against Women, Economic Empowerment, Entrepreneurship and Innovation, [and more]."

FELICIA GEORGE
Watsonville, CA

Felicia and her husband, Chris, attend Corralitos Church, which raffled off the beautiful queen-sized quilt pictured above made by a church member. All proceeds were gifted to the Set Free Movement to help create new futures and end modern slavery. In addition to engaging their church, Felicia was busy in the spring and early summer showing human trafficking documentaries in middle schools.

WALT SCHULCZ
Spring Arbor, MI

Walt and his wife, Wanda, and the rest of their SFM team have been creating a two-day, geographically-specific curriculum to be taught in several school districts throughout the state. Their team is also actively involved in fair trade product sales, Save Our Adolescents from Prostitution ("S.O.A.P.") in hotels, college campus groups, documentary screenings, and more.
